Rehearsal

omaggio a Peter Ablinger

Charles M. Champi
(2018)

Instrumentation:

- Flute
- Oboe
- Clarinet Bb
- Bassoon
- Trumpet Bb
- Piano
- 2 Violines
- Viola
- Violoncello
- Contrabass
- Tape
- Performing Conductor

The instrumental notation is very straight forward. Keep in mind that the notes and sounds produced have to be similar to speech or to white noise.

There is no coordination with the Tape besides the Conductor's actions at the very beginning and the activation of the first and second tracks. After the ensemble comes in, the pre-recorded tape could end even a few minutes before the performers. Ideal duration is around 7 minutes (total).

The Conductor has to move, whisper, speak, and sing. This doesn't mean that the Conductor has to be a performing actor or singer. The "vocal" part is to be sung with a natural (non-operatic nor "academic") voice. Intonation does not need to be perfect. Keep in mind that the vocal part is at unison with the Trumpet. A nice heterophonic texture is to be looked for instead of a perfect unison. Regarding vocal timbre: for male conductors I would suggest something similar to Radiohead's Thom Yorke. For female conductors I suggest to sing in a way similar to Portishead's Beth Gibbons, or, if possible, Björk.

As a general remark, the whole piece has to sound like a long shaping of the G major chord at the beginning of Beethoven's 5th symphony. The piece is a kind of detailed work on that chord's balance and colour. Therefore, the music can never be too loud. A moderate general dynamic is needed to blend better the performed music with the tape. However, at bar 85 the pre-recorded sound will fade away and the live music has to "emerge" from the general texture.

The text is a comment by E.T.A. Hoffmann about Beethoven's 5th symphony. It works as a guide to "model" the G major chord and its sonority. This is the full text:

"Radiant beams shout through this regions night, and we become aware of gigantic shadows, which, rocking back and forth, close in on us and destroy everything within us except the pain of endless longing -a longing in which every pleasure that rose up in jubilant tones sinks and succumbs, and only through this pain, which, while consuming but not destroying love, hope, and joy, tries to burst our breasts with full-voiced harmonies of all the passions, we live on and are captivated beholders of the spirits".

The woodwind multiphonics and the piano chords at the end have to resemble the sounds of spoken vowels, in the same way this happens in Peter Ablinger's "Voices and Piano" pieces. Coordination between the instrumentalists and conductor is vital for this illusion.

For the strings: all long passages with romboid head notes are to be played with harmonic's pressure. However, do not aim for a "pure" or "crystal-like" sound, but for a multiphonic. It might be necessary to bend some notes a little up or down to obtain this multiphonic effect. The hollow (white) circle above the notes stands for "normal bow pressure". A crossed circle stands for "middle-high pressure". A black circle stands for "high bow pressure". However, scratch tones must be avoided as long as possible.

All speaking, humming, or singing effects have to be exaggerated.

Regarding the Tape:

A simple stereo system is required. It is important that the public get the impression that the pre-recorded music comes from the stage. Therefore, there shall not be any kind of spatial distribution.

Please follow carefully all Lightning instructions.

[Pretend to be conducting Beethoven's 5th symphony]

The image shows a musical score for a symphony orchestra. It consists of 13 staves. The first 12 staves are for the instruments: Flute (Fl.), Oboe (Ob.), Clarinet (Cl.), Bassoon (Bsn.), Trumpet (Tpt.), Piano (Pno.), Violin I (Vln. I), Violin II (Vln. II), Viola (Vla.), Violoncello (Vc.), and Contrabass (Cb.). Each instrument staff has a single note, a half note, positioned in the middle of the staff. The 13th staff is for the Tape, which contains a complex melodic line with various rhythmic patterns and accidentals. The conductor's part (Cond.) is a simple bar line with the instruction "[Pretend to be conducting Beethoven's 5th symphony]".

Detailed description: This page of a musical score covers measures 103 through 107. The instrumentation includes Flute (Fl.), Oboe (Ob.), Clarinet (Cl.), Bassoon (Bsn.), Trumpet (Tpt.), Piano (Pno.), Violin I (Vln. I), Violin II (Vln. II), Viola (Vla.), Violoncello (Vc.), Contrabass (Cb.), and Conductor (Cond.).
 - Flute: Remains silent throughout the passage.
 - Oboe, Clarinet, Bassoon: Each has a single note in measure 104, marked with a hairpin and the word "and".
 - Trumpet: Plays a melodic line starting in measure 103, with a slur over measures 103-104 and a fermata in measure 105.
 - Piano: Features complex chordal textures in measures 104 and 107, with various accidentals and dynamics.
 - Violin I: Plays a series of sixteenth-note patterns in measures 103-104, with a slur and a fermata in measure 105.
 - Violin II: Remains silent.
 - Viola: Plays a melodic line with slurs and fermatas in measures 103-104 and 105-106.
 - Violoncello: Remains silent.
 - Contrabass: Plays a melodic line with slurs and fermatas in measures 103-104 and 105-106, with performance markings "ord.", "tasto", and "pont." below the staff.
 - Conductor: Mirrors the Trumpet's melodic line, with slurs and fermatas, and performance markings "and" and "joy" below the staff.
