San Diego Linguistic Papers 1

2003

Welcome to the first issue of San Diego Linguistic Papers, a new on-line working papers published by the Department of Linguistics, University of California, San Diego.

From 1969-2002, Linguistic Notes from La Jolla was the working papers of the department. As we move on-line, we have renamed the working papers to more closely reflect the name of the university.

This first issue contains five papers in phonology, both recent work and research completed in the department over the past few years. Yuki Kuroda and Sanford Schane, two emeritus research professors, have contributed recent research. Graduate student Dan Brassil and current phonology professors, Eric Bakovic and Sharon Rose, have also contributed papers to the volume.

Sincerely,

SDLP Committee

James Kirby, Alex Li, Erin McPherson, Hanna Rohde, Sharon Rose,
Mimu Tsujimura
