FOREWORD

Carte Italiane is a graduate student journal which publishes articles in all areas of Italian Studies including literature, art, history, and folklore in English and Italian.

The editorial board is made up of graduate students from the departments of Italian, Comparative Literature and Romance Linguistics and Literature. Although all the articles in the present issue are from UCLA, it is our intent to publish papers from graduate students on other UC campuses as well as campuses nationwide.

As a service to our readers, we have provided a list of the Ph.D. dissertations written in Italian Studies at UCLA over the past ten years. The list will be updated with each successive issue.

We intend to expand our format to include a book review section in future issues.

The cost of Carte Italiane is $6.00 to individuals and $9.00 to institutions. The support and cooperation of the advisory board and the generous financial aid of the Graduate Students Association, UCLA have been instrumental in making the publication of this journal possible.

Special thanks for this first volume are extended to Professor Marga Cottino-Jones for her encouragement and assistance.
