Library Announcement: Harrington Smithsonian Papers

PETER BRISCOE

The Library of the University of California, Riverside will be acquiring the micro-filmed Papers of John Peabody Harrington in the Smithsonian Institution, 1907-1957. UCR will make the papers available via inter-library loan to other UC campuses in accordance with the UC Shared Purchase Program, which funded the acquisition. The first segment of microfilm covering the tribes of Alaska and the Northwest Coast has just been published, but the entire 350-reel collection will not be completed until the end of 1983. Edited by Elaine L. Mills and published by Kraus Microfilm, the collection contains more than 750,000 pages of field notes, slip-file dictionaries, unpublished grammars, drafts and manuscripts for published writings, photographs, sketches, maps, correspondence, and accounts of expenses. A detailed guidebook, which may be ordered separately from Kraus, will provide access to the collection.

PHILIP J. WILKE

Paul Langenwalter has called to my attention two flaws in our recent report "Ord Shelter," which appeared in Vol. 3, No. 1. We inadvertently referred to the wrapped jack rabbit jaw as a rodent jaw. This perpetuated an error that originally appeared on page 383 of Emil Haury's The Stratigraphy and Archaeology of Ventana Cave, Arizona (Tucson: University of Arizona Press, and Albuquerque: University of New Mexico Press, 1950). We should have referred to the jack rabbit as a lagomorph rather than a rodent. Furthermore, we omitted referencing Haury's work.
