Foundations of Chumash Complexity

Edited by Jeanne E. Arnold

190 pages 2004 1-931745-18-8

$24 (paper) and $45 (cloth)

This volume highlights the latest research on the foundations of socio-political complexity in coastal California. The populous maritime societies of southern California, particularly the groups known collectively as the Chumash, have gone largely unrecognized as prototypical complex hunter-gatherers—only recently beginning to emerge from the shadow of their more celebrated counterparts on the Northwest Coast of North America. While Northwest cultures are renowned for such complex institutions as ceremonial potlaches, slavery, cedar plank-house villages, and rich artistic traditions, the Chumash are increasingly recognized as complex hunter-gatherers with a different set of organizational characteristics: ascribed chiefly leadership, a strong maritime economy based on oceangoing canoes, an integrative ceremonial system, and intensive and highly specialized craft production activities. Chumash sites provide some of the most robust data on these subjects available in the Americas. Contributors present stimulating new analyses of household and village organization, ceremonial specialists, craft specializations and settlement data, cultural transmission processes, bead manufacturing practices, watercraft, and the acquisition of prized marine species.

Weaving a Legacy

Indian Baskets and the People of Owens Valley, California

Sharon E. Dean, Peggy S. Ratcheson, Judith Finger, et al.

"This is an excellent resource, one of the few that gives a review of a region of basket makers and the context in which they wove."

—Suzanne Griset, Arizona State Museum

The Broken Land

Adventures in Great Basin Geology

Frank DeCourten

"In ten chapters the reader is led, both geologically and personally, through the history of the Great Basin. The style is casual, making for a pleasant read. In particular, stories regarding DeCourten's extensive experience with his students in the field are endearing."

—Choice

Native Plants of Southern Nevada

An Ethnobotany

David Rhode

Arranges native plant knowledge that was previously scattered in ethnographic notes and monographs in a traditional field-guide format. Includes plant description and habitat specifics, listings of the native names given by the Paiute and Shoshone peoples, and discusses the native uses of each plant.

Now available in paperback!

Ancient Visions

Petroglyphs and Pictographs of the Wind River and Bighorn Country, Wyoming and Montana

Julie E. Francis and Lawrence L. Loendorf

"This is a well-written and wonderfully illustrated work. . . . It is a significant contribution to rock art studies in the Intermountain West and one that develops a useful model for future rock art studies."

—Journal of the West

"[A] wonderful and acute study."

The Paragon Agency, Publishers

– National, Local, Reprints, & First Person Accounts, of American History –

The Paragon Agency, Publishers — designs, develops, prints, and publishes books on American history. SpecialBooks.com distributes these unique historical and first person accounts, containing such diverse topics as Amelia Earhart, the sinking of the Titanic, and the California Missions.

First person accounts are taken from actual postcards, letters, journals and memoirs. Exciting tales from people who lived through these historic events, provide for good reading and give a better feel for how things really were. Original photography and historic artwork, bring realism to each book.

Local History Books bring back to life, the way history was recorded, or the way history has been preserved. They contain many first person accounts and original artworks of times gone by. Unusual photography and stories not heard within most of the last century, give vivid descriptions of history in the making. Local History books cover Southern California.

Special Books include a variety of publications on the humanities from prose and poetry to cookbooks, guide books and special historic collections. Tour a historic town or find an exceptional gift for someone special.

A fifteen year history of books on America, while producing books for Mission San Juan Capistrano, Bowers Museum, Upton & Sons, & The Malki Museum Press.
