NUMEN: December 2009 - March 2010, for Small Orchestra

This work is inspired by the reading of two texts: on the one hand the story of Platon's "Myth of the cave" and on the other, the "Praise of the shadow" by the Japanese Junichiro Tonizaki. In both texts a common element unites them: the Shadow.

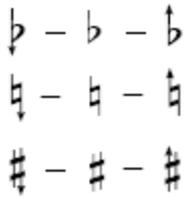

The word "Numen" means "Presence". In ancient times it made reference to the divine presence in religious cults.

Based on these premises, in the work the concept of shadow will have a main role, since it will determine from the materials to be used, the structure of the piece, the spatial arrangement of the Orchestra on Stage, as well as the association of different instrumental combinations throughout the play.

Divided into four sections, the piece runs in a continuous flow of materials that create different atmospheres and layers, in which the timbral work and the use of new instrumental techniques will cause the Orchestra to be an organic entity in continuous evolution.

ENRIQUE BUSTO

Inside Piano: String covered as a damper with one hand, while the other presses the key of the string (symbol: square head)

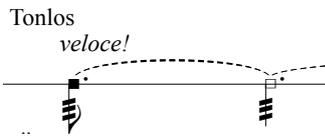

Inside Piano: whit Bass Drum mallet, make tremolos by way of gliss. on the strings (approximately in the register)

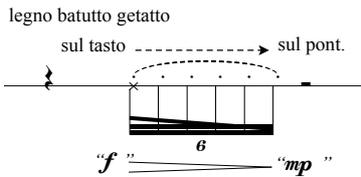

Keys pressed but no sound (symbol: diamond head)

STRINGS:

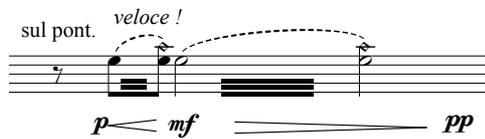

Whisper bow: the bow will be passed directly over the bridge at 45 degrees.

Legno batutto on the strings turned off by the pressure of the left hand

Detailed description: This page of a musical score for 'Numen' features a variety of instruments. The Flute (Fl.) part begins at measure 32 with a triplet of eighth notes, marked mf, followed by a dynamic shift to f. It then includes a 'Fru.' (fricative) effect, a glissando, and a 'Slap' effect. Dynamics range from pp to p. The Arpeggiator (Arp.) part consists of two staves with complex rhythmic patterns and glissandos, with dynamics including mf, p, f, mp, and mp. The string section (Vln. I, Vln. II, Vla., Vc., Cb.) provides a dense texture with tremolos and glissandos. The Violoncello (Vc.) and Contrabass (Cb.) parts are specifically marked with (sopra III) and mp, with a performance instruction meta pressione for the cello.
