Call for papers on Women and Gender for a Special Issue of the UCLA Historical Journal

The UCLA Historical Journal is seeking articles and book reviews for a special issue on women and gender slated for publication in the fall of 1994. The Journal is dedicated to publishing quality work by graduate students in history and welcomes interdisciplinary approaches to historical studies.

Please submit manuscripts in triplicate accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope no later than March 1, 1994 to Editor-in-Chief, UCLA Historical Journal, Department of History, University of California Los Angeles, Los Angeles, CA 90024. All submitted work should be double-spaced, including footnotes. For questions of style, consult the University of Chicago's Manual of Style or Kate Turabian's A Manual for Writing Term Papers, Theses and Dissertations. Manuscripts, including footnotes, should be no more than 40 pages in length. Because submissions are evaluated anonymously, the author's name should appear only on the title page.

The Journal is also interested in publishing book reviews of recently published books (of the reviewer's own choice) which focus on the issues raised by this special issue. Book reviews should include a concise synopsis of the book, a brief historiography providing context, an analysis of how the book contributes to the field, or fails to do so. Book reviews should be five to seven pages in length (double-spaced) and should conform to the requirements described above for articles. Book reviews should be sent in triplicate no later than March 1, 1994, to Book Review Editor, UCLA Historical Journal, Department of History, University of California, Los Angeles, Los Angeles, CA 90024.
